The Jungles Of Periyar From Elephant Court

Periyar National Park

Thekkady is enchanting as the road from the backwaters winds through tranquil countryside, rich plantations and into thick jungles of Periyar National Park. Among the 62 species of mammals, many are rare, endemic and endangered. Periyar is prime Elephant country and large herds are often sighted at the lake fringes. There is an estimated population of 900-1000 animals which is likely to overlap with the population in the adjoining forest areas.

The Tiger is found in all types of habitats though their density is much less in the evergreen forests. Though sighting one is difficult because of the thick vegetation, evidences like pugmarks, clawing, and scats are located throughout the reserve. The population is estimated to be between 35-40.

Sambar, the largest deer in India, is extensively distributed and constitutes the principal prey base of Tiger and Wild Dog. Wild Boar has wide distribution throughout the park. Four of the five primate species found in the Western Ghats are well represented in Periyar. While the Nilgiri Langur enjoys a wide distribution in the moist forests, the highly endangered Lion Tailed Macaque is confined to the dense evergreen canopies. Malabar Giant Squirrel is common in the area. Though the presence of the endangered species, Small Travancore Flying Squirrel, is recorded from Periyar, the Large Flying Squirrel is more frequently seen.
